Bay beachfront merchants, Chamber planning festival

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Pat Murphy Jr., Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Retail Committee chairman, is coordinating a 'Downtown Merchants Day and Beachfront Festival' planned for Saturday afternoon, May 31.

The event, expected to run from 1 to 6 p.m. that day, will include a Bay St. Louis Rotary Club bike-a-thon, street dance and catamaran race, Murphy reports.

"The festival will be sponsored by the Chamber and downtown Bay St. Louis merchants in the area roughly bordered by DeMontluzin, Second and Court Streets, and Beach Boulevard," Murphy said.

"The section of Beach Boulevard between Main and Court Streets will be closed to automobile traffic that afternoon and merchants in the downtown area are being encouraged to place booths in this area," the committee chairman explained.

"Members of the Retired Senior's Volunteer Program will set up craft booths. We are encouraging local businessmen to run specials during the event and we will have food and beverage booths," Murphy said.

Pat Murphy and County Line and Fantasy Productions sound systems will provide music for the street dance and WXGR Radio will do a remote broadcast from the beachfront festival site.

"A bandstand will be located at the head of Main Street," Murphy reported.

The chamber committee chairman said an invitational catamaran race is planned and the Rotary Club will stage its bike-a-thon which will run from Main Street to Buccaneer Park the same afternoon.

Dick Kosab, Rotary president, said, "The purpose of the bikathon is to raise money for the Rotary International's Three-H program which stands for health, hunger and humanities."

"This is a new program of Rotary International instituted as an observance of the 75th anniversary year of our organization. The purpose is to alleviate health, hunger and other humanitarian problems around the world," Kosab explained.

"Our first project will be to immunize all the children in the Philippines for polio," Kosab added.

James Ginn is chairman and Mack Haas is vice chairman of Rotary's biking event.

Haas explained, "The bike-a-thon will run from Main Street to Buccaneer Park and back to Main Street."

"The event will be open to everybody and bikers can be sponsored by anyone," Haas explained.

The vice chairman said plans for the bike-a-thon are still in the preliminary stages and more complete information will be available soon.

Murphy added, "If I haven't contacted everyone in the downtown area or anyone interested in participating in the event may contact me at Steven's Electric."

Lounge fracas ends in mayhem

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Bay St. Louis Police were called at 2:22 a.m. Thursday morning to quell a fight in progress at the Sisters Three Lounge, Dunbar and US-90, according to Chief Douglas Williams.

"When Bay Police arrived on the scene there was mass confusion and we called the Sheriff's Department and Waveland Police to assist in restoring order," Williams said.

A $5,000 each bond was set on John R. Weddle, 34, Tallahassee, Fla.; Reid Coffey, 21, and Sandra Hale, both of Nicholson, Miss. Coffey and Hale were charged with public drunk, fighting, disturbing the peace, destroying private property and assault to do bodily harm.

Weddle has been charged with public drunk, fighting and disturbing the peace.

Police say the fight apparently started in the bar over who was next on the pool table.

Coffey and Hale left the bar and got into a 1970 Volkswagen and drove the car up on the sidewalk and into the wall of the lounge. In doing this it ran into David Carver, 24, Bay St. Louis, knocking him through the plate glass window, a police report says.

The driver of the VW was Coffey, police say, and when he attempted to back up, Lynette Johnson, Bay St. Louis, who was attempting to get the license number was knocked down and dragged for about 40 feet before she became disengaged from the vehicle

County board pays 1960 bill

By RICH ADAMS

The Hancock County School Board Saturday morning approved payment of $351 in attorneys' fees from a suit against the board by a girl whose leg was amputated after being run over by a county school bus during the administration of former superintendent K.G. McCarty.

According to School Board President Woodrow Ladner, the incident occurred between 1960 and 1964.

Present Superintendent Billy D. Sills said Saturday Kathleen Antunica Moran, a Hancock County resident, was injured near Gulfview Elementary School and attempted to sue the board following amputation of her leg.

Sills said 36 students from the sub-out-of-court, explaining the board awarded Moran $7,000 from the accident contingency fund.

He added the payment is being made to the Bay St. Louis lawfirm of Gex, Gex, and Phillips now because "they just asked for payment now."

Monvel Cuevas moved to approve the payment, which was seconded by Young Banks and approved by the board.

In other business, Sills was asked to give a report on the number of students from Diamondhead attending Hancock North Central High School.

Sills said 36 students from the sub-

Popeye's robbery averted

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Bay St. Louis Police arrived at Popeye's Famous Fried Chicken on US-90 early Saturday morning to find Randy Goodick and Leo Cook had apprehended David Bruce Joubert, 22, Rt 1, Box 508-B, Gulfport for allegedly trying to remove a safe from the business, according to Police Chief Douglas Williams.

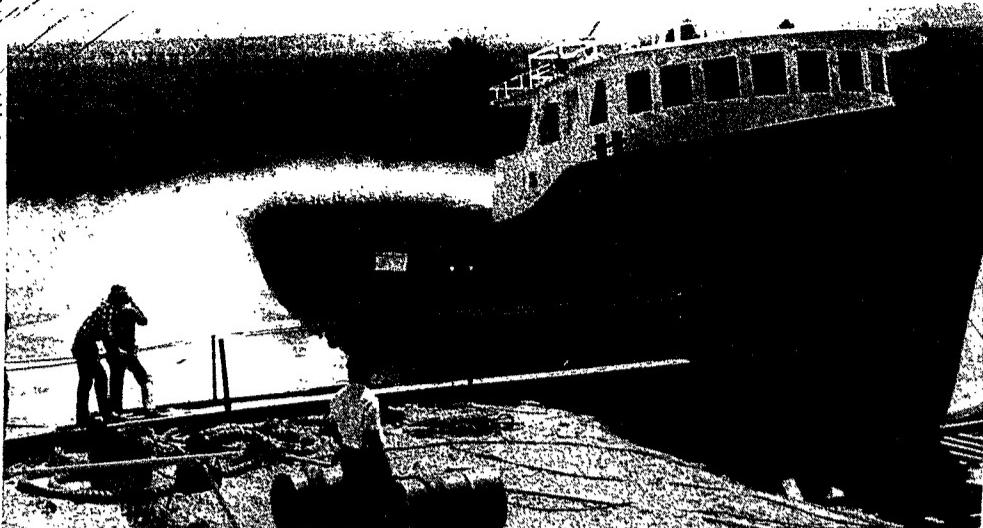

Cook, the night manager of Pizza Hut next door to Popeye's, telephoned police and told them someone was in the business establishment.

Goodick, according to Popeye's manager Ray Taylor, is one of the owners of the franchise on the Coast and resides in Bay St. Louis. Taylor said Cook had called Goodick in addition to the police.

Bay policemen Albert Biehl and Albert Dorsey found the safe had been taken from the office and was on a dolly and near the rear door of Popeye's where Joubert's pickup truck was backed up.

Goodick and Cook told police they saw someone in the building and the alleged robber fled into the cooler where he was delayed in a struggle until police arrived.

Joubert was placed under arrest by Shooting.....

Mobile Medic was summoned and took Mrs. Strange to Hancock General. She was questioned by Seay and Bernard at the hospital and told them there had been a family quarrel during which she had been shot by her husband, according to Peterson. Sheriff Peterson said Mrs. Strange apparently had been shot four times—twice in the head and once in an arm and in her chest with a .22 caliber automatic rifle.

Alton Strange was arrested at 4 a.m. at his residence, Rt. 3, Box 267, Bay St. Louis, by Investigator Seay and Captain Bernard and charged with aggravated assault. His bond has been set at $50,000 pending condition of Mrs. Strange, Peterson added.

Her condition is listed as stable, according to Peterson. She was transferred from Hancock General after emergency treatment to an Ocean Springs hospital.

Sheriff Peterson, Seay and Auxiliary Deputy Jack Norwood went to the residence after daylight and recovered the alleged weapon submerged in a bayou near the home. Police say they searched for the weapon when they made the arrest of Strange but were unable to find it at the time.

The rally, sponsored by local ministers and endorsed by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, is being staged in conjunction with a 'Washington, D.C. for Jesus Rally' the same day which is expected to attract nationwide participation.

A 7 a.m. Dutch treat 'prayer breakfast' is also planned Tuesday at the Sirlion Stockade on US-90 in Waveland. Reservations are required for that phase of the day's activities, according to James Ginn of Bay St. Louis, chamber rally chairman.

The Courthouse program will include Keesler's Drum And Bugle Corps playing the National Anthem, a welcoming address by Ginn, and musical presentations by the Bay Senior High School Band and Chorus and the St. Stanislaus and Hancock North Central High School Bands.

"Local pastors and ministers will, through special prayers, invoke divine guidance for our religious and governmental leaders," Ginn reported.

County group pursues road money, beach restoration

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

In resolutions passed at its April meeting Tuesday night, the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce board of director's called for immediate distribution of some $700,000 of federal and state authorized beachfront road repair funds among the county's five districts.

The directors also voted to ask the County Board of Supervisors to levy millage for restoration of the manmade beach along the county's coastline.

The chamber directors voted for the road resolution after County Engineer Lawrence Seal told the board the authorized beach road repair funds would not be available until October.

Chamber Board Member John Scafide Jr. said, "We need this road repaired because it serves the main entrance to Buccaneer State Park, the shrimp and oyster industry at Bayou Cadet, and is a main thoroughfare for Lakeshore, Clermont Harbor, Waveland and Bay St. Louis."

The chamber directors also called for the county supervisors to assume authority of the manmade sand beach and restore it by setting aside a certain amount of millage in addition to the present seawall tax.

Richard Thomas, chamber vice president, noted the present seawall tax is used to retire County Port and Harbor Commission bonds for the county's airport and water port facilities.

Scafide was asked to draft both resolutions to the county supervisors. Scafide and Wayne Ducomb Jr., chamber president, will present the resolutions at the first supervisor's meeting next month.

Several chamber board members cited the beach as a major tourist attraction as well as an essential buffer protecting the beach road from wave erosion.

Pat Murphy Jr., a chamber board member, said the Harrison County beach was presently far more attractive than Hancock County's beach and is drawing tourists away from local beaches and businesses.

Scafide said Thursday morning, "It is estimated it would take at least $5 million to repump the sand burn."

"With the county's present assessed valuation, it would take at least five mills to pay for repumping and maintaining the beach, but the county can only levy a maximum of two mills," Scafide explained.

"If the county could at least levy two mills now then we could at least make a start at reclaiming the beach," Scafide added.

A cube of nothingness

Q. After 39 years of beautiful marriage my husband died very suddenly. I am totally and absolutely lost. I can find no direction or purpose in life; or even a reason for living.

Oh, I go through the motions. Have learned to do things like haul our travel trailer and attend our group camping meetings which we enjoyed so much—and to fix a broken dog chain, repair a window. I go places when I am asked, but I am still so alone in that cube of nothingness. Can you help me?

A. You have suffered one of the most profound shocks to personality in the loss of a beloved life partner. It is a very hard fact to which to adjust. But adjust you must. Your husband would say that to you.

I believe personally that from the other side he wants to help you back to normal life. So live each day in that deeper companionship with him, and in my opinion that will make him happy and gradually you also. You are doing right in carrying on in the same old way. Keep it up and one day peace and new life will come.

HYPOCRITES! WHAT ABOUT THEM?

Are you one of those strange people who hide behind "hypocrites" as a pretense for not attending church services?

Hypocrites are a convenient excuse for people who feel guilty about their attitude and actions toward worship and churches.

The man who says he is kept away from church services by hypocrites is either dishonest, or has never thought much about what he is saying.

The presence of "hypocrites" at other places and activities does not influence him.

The business community is full of hypocrites, but if he sees a chance to make money, he doesn't stop because of his merit.

Society is saturated with hypocrites and worse, yet he never thinks of becoming a hermit.

Married life is full of them, but that doesn't make a man become a bachelor, nor a woman an old maid.

Hell is full of hypocrites, yet most of those who attempt to justify their anti-church attitudes by hiding behind "hypocrites" is doing little to keep from going there.

There are those who would have you think they are really trying to avoid the society of hypocrites, and yet they take not one single step toward the only place where there will be no hypocrites—Heaven.

What is a hypocrite? Winston's Dictionary defines a hypocrite as "one who practices pretense or less!"

In writing to Timothy, Paul says: "But if I tarry long, thou mayest know how thou oughtest to behave thyself in the house of God, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth"—I Tim. 3:15.

If you are not already doing so, find a Bible-believing New Testament church and share regularly with others in worship and other Christian services! You can't hide behind hypocrites. They are too small!

There will be a gathering on the steps of the Hancock County Courthouse on Tuesday, April 29 at 5:15 p.m.

The theme for this rally is 'Hancock County For Jesus' and is in conjunction with a nationally rally in Washington, D.C.

The prayer rally is sponsored by many of the churches of Hancock County and is supported by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, Chamber of Commerce, Cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

We hope there will be a large turnout of area citizens who in turn will recite prayers for our local and national political leaders.

We understand a band from Keesler as well as local high school bands will be on hand for the celebration.

We hope to see you all at the big rally.

We were involved in an interesting conversation Thursday with Mr. Watt Williams, president of Buccaneer Sports, Inc.

That company is owner of the Biloxi Buccaneers, the semi-professional football team of the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Mr. Williams said they have had numerous requests for his team to play an exhibition game in Hancock County. Several of the team members are from Bay St. Louis and Pass Christian.

A game the Gulf Coast team has scheduled with Slidell in August was hoped to be scheduled in Hancock, but Mr. Williams reports he ran into a little snag and will have to schedule it in Gulfport.

Mr. Williams says he is unable to find a football stadium owner willing to rent to him for the contest in Hancock.

This may be something for us in the future to look at, a central stadium to have such things as professional football games even though they are exhibition contests. If enough interest is shown probably regular contests could be held in Hancock County.

SHRINERS HELP LOCAL YOUTH—Timothy Carver, behind cab of Galveston Fire Truck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Carver of Lakeshore, has recently returned from the Shriners Hospital in Galveston. Carver was burned on his left leg in a fire at his home on February 6 and was taken to Hancock General Hospital. Local Shriners Ben Skerrett Jr. and Robert Coleman of Joppe Temple, Gulfport helped arrange for the 15 day stay in the Galveston Shiner Burn Center. Carver said his family is very grateful to the shriners for their providing transportation and lodging for his wife and son during the 15 day hospital stay for skin grafting, and also for the help from Dr. Helen McGhee and Father Hayes. Timothy Carver appeared with the Galveston Fire Department and Shriners when Shrine Hospital Benefit Day was declared throughout Texas by Governor Clements.

UNO professor explores basis of Iranian hostility

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following timely report on an interview with the noted historian, Dr. Stephen E. Ambrose of the University of New Orleans, was supplied to The Sea Coast Echo by the UNO Office of Information Services.

Iranian paranoia over a United States plot to overthrow Iran's current government and return the Shah to power is understandable. After all, we did it before, Dr. Stephen E. Ambrose, University of New Orleans professor of history and Dwight D. Eisenhower's official biographer, said in a recent interview at the university.

The Iranian people had thrown the Shah out in '53 only to see the CIA bring him back, so it's understandable that they might be suspicious of us now," said Dr. Ambrose.

"Iran was the CIA's first major covert activity to overthrow a government. It (the coup) was done under orders from President Eisenhower ostensibly to prevent a Communist takeover. But how it was done is probably the most interesting aspect—the CIA bought itself a mob to ride against the ruling prime minister, Mossadegh, whose major fault was attempting to nationalize Iranian oil."

It is estimated that the CIA spent between "a few hundred thousand to several million dollars" in accomplishing "old Mossy's" downfall and the triumphal return of His Imperial Majesty, the Shahanshah, Mohammed Reza Shah Pahlavi, Light of the Aryans from self-imposed exile in Rome, he said.

Dr. Ambrose's remarks, made in an April 24 interview preceding the annual spring lecture of the Friends of the UNO Library, were based upon conversations over the past two years with various CIA agents, including Howard Hunt, Loy Henderson (U.S. Ambassador to Iran) and Richard Bissell, in preparation for his forthcoming book,

"Ike's Spies: Eisenhower and the Intelligence Community." "Espionage has gotten a bad name in recent years," Dr. Ambrose said, "but we should realize that without it, we would have lost World War II. Most people accept the CIA's role of gathering intelligence information but get awfully queasy about acts of intervention. Still, there are a lot of people who would like to have seen the Bay of Pigs succeed and who admire the Israelis because they go in with force. Knowing where to draw the line is a difficult problem especially when you consider that the KGB (Russia's secret service) is four times the size and has ten times the appropriations as the CIA."

During his UNO lecture, Dr. Ambrose traced the history of foreign entanglements in Iran from the beginning of British oil interests in 1909 through AJAX, the code name for the British initiated and American implemented plan to remove Mossadegh from office in 1953 while retaining the Shah.

"There are only two facts about modern Persia—Iran—that truly matter to the rest of the world," Dr. Ambrose said. "It has oil, and it is Russia's southern neighbor. Because of the oil, the British had moved in on Iran in 1909, when the Anglo-Persian Oil Company, controlled by the British government, obtained a 60 year concession which gave it exclusive rights to explore and exploit the oil of Iran. Because of the border, Britain and Russia, with American support, had invaded Iran in 1941...to provide a corridor for the shipment of American lend-lease goods to Russia. This was as much an act of great power highhandedness and brutality as Hitler's invasion of Denmark, although in this case the voices of outraged protests were exclusively Iranian."

In answer to Mossadegh's request that Eisenhower had written: "I fully understand that the government of Iran must determine for itself which foreign and domestic policies are likely to be most advantageous to Iran...I am not trying to advise the Iranian government on its best interests. I am merely Nazi. Thus he was forced to abdicate, sent into exile and his 23 year old son (the current Shah) was put on the throne. Although he looked every inch the monarch, the new Shah was easily manipulated by the occupying forces.

By 1951, the situation with the British was "intolerable," said Dr. Ambrose. The Anglo-Persian Oil Company was paying "more in taxes to the British government than it did in royalties to Iran" and was using "the huge profits it earned in Iran to expand its oil output in other parts of the world," he said. At this point a Khomeini-styled leader, Dr. Mohammed Mossadegh entered the picture. The first Middle Eastern politician to demand the complete nationalization of his country's oil fields, he was "venerably regarded by those Westerners who dealt with him as a completely unreasonable, demagogic and xenophobic man."

Mossadegh's request for increased aid from the United States to withstand economic sanctions by Britians was refused by Eisenhower, who had become convinced that Mossadegh was either a Communist or a Communist tool, Dr. Ambrose said.

"Strangely enough, no one seemed to notice that throughout the crisis, in which the stakes were nothing less than one of the world's greatest oil pools, the Russians were content to stand aside," he noted. "Nor did anyone in the West ever point out that Mossadegh had not appealed to his northern neighbor for help."

In answer to Mossadegh's request that Eisenhower had written: "I fully understand that the government of Iran must determine for itself which foreign and domestic policies are likely to be most advantageous to Iran...I am not trying to advise the Iranian government on its best interests. I am merely trying to explain why in the circumstances, the government of the United States is not presently in a position to extend more aid to Iran or to purchase Iranian oil."

Unlike Khomeini, Mossadegh had the problem that "the world of the early 50's could get along very well without Iranian oil," said Dr. Ambrose.

At the time of Mossadegh's appointment as prime minister in 1951 and his overthrow in 1953, there was a series of "cloak and dagger" events, Dr. Ambrose continued. These included several "clandestine meetings" between the "waverings" Shah, who had fled Iran two times during this period, and Kim Roosevelt, a CIA agent enlisted by the British Secret Service; coded radio messages to assure the Shah of American-British support; and large sums of money smuggled into Iran to bankroll military and public support for the Shah when he dismissed Mossadegh.

On August 20, 1953, Roosevelt orchestrated a relatively bloodless coup—100 were killed, 300 injured, the UNO historian said. Later, Mossadegh was tried, found guilty of treason and sentenced to three years solitary confinement.

"An international consortium of Western oil companies signed a 25 year pact with Iran for its oil," Dr. Ambrose said. "The old Anglo-Persian Oil Company got 40 per cent; Royal Dutch Shell got 14 per cent; the Compagnie Francaise des Petroles got six per cent and the Americans—Gulf, Standard of New Jersey, Texaco, and Socony-Mobil—got 40 per cent."

"So the British had failed to stop the inevitable," he concluded. "They lost their monopoly while the Americans had managed to prevent the improbable, a Communist take-over in Iran."

Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss.) urged establishment of an independent National Economic Commission to find solutions for inflation and other economic problems.

"Our economic problems appear to be rapidly approaching the crisis stage," Senator Cochran said on the Senate floor, noting that several prominent economic experts have suggested such a national commission.

He introduced a bill calling for a bipartisan, ten-member National Economic Commission to study the nation's economic problems and recommend possible solutions within the next nine months.

Senator Cochran's bill calls for the ten-member commission to be drawn from business, academic, labor and government circles. "The President would appoint them and designate a chairman, subject to the Senate's approval.

The blue ribbon commission would go out of business after submitting its recommendations within a nine-month period of Congress.

In calling for establishment of the economic panel, Senator Cochran cited rising inflation, high interest rate, declining purchasing power, a large trade deficit, increased unemployment, and decreased savings and productivity as "disturbing factors which need immediate national attention."

But, he added, "Perhaps the most disturbing fact of all is the psychological effect this is having on the American people," he now believe that high rates of inflation are "firmly engrained in our economy."

Senator Cochran contended that existing government agencies dealing with economic problems "have become little more than apologists for the government's inability to do anything."

Concrete suggested for Cadet bulkhead

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Preliminary plans for a bulkhead bordering a canal off the main channel at Bayou Cadet were presented by Engineer Tom Fromherz of New Orleans at a recess meeting of the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission Thursday night.

The engineer said the bulkhead would be constructed with eight-inch concrete sheets.

"The soil boring data from Bayou Cadet told us what the soils are and what we need to design a bulkhead. Its lousy stuff... a soft clay," Fromherz said.

Commission Director W. Wilson Webre interrupted Fromherz and said, "I would like to ask you not to give an estimate of construction costs at this time."

Fromherz continued, "We investigated several types of bulkhead materials. Timber was eliminated because you can't develop enough strength in timber and steel would corrode badly because of the salt water."

"So we selected an eight-inch concrete sheet constructed by Marine Concrete Structures, Inc., of your local industry," Fromherz said.

The engineer pointed out how the proposed bulkhead would extend from the end of the existing Bayou Cadet dock and down one side of a canal.

"We're putting two sheets along the front of the end of the existing dock to give support and prevent erosion," Fromherz added.

Commissioner Fred Curet asked, "Isn't there a snag there in the middle of the canal?"

Fromherz replied, "If so, the contractor dredging the canal will remove it."

Commission Attorney Gerald Gex explained, "Somebody's boat sank near the dock because a snag punched a hole in the bottom of the boat and we determined we were not responsible."

Webre said, "I'm confident in Gore Engineering Co.'s soil sample work and I would like you to submit their bill to us."

Fromherz said the plans for the bulkhead are 70 to 80 percent complete.

Webre asked Fromherz, "You're not recommending to build with steel or wood?"

The engineer replied, "No, there's no way we can use timber because of the 12-foot exposure along the canal."

When queried about the proposed ice plant location in behind the structure Webre noted plant will be located behind the tiebacks which will place in the ground some 30-feet behind the bulkhead and fasten to the concrete sheets with cables.

Fromherz explained the ice plant could purchase a relatively inexpensive conveyor to move ice dockside.

The engineer also recommended a concrete cap be placed on top of the bulkhead with timber bumpers to avoid damage to boats moored along side.

In other Bayou Cadet business, the commission authorized a sub-lease agreement between Hancock County, Gulf Fishermen, Inc. and Fosti:

Pair nabbed

for van theft

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Two Gretna, La. women were apprehended and charged with the alleged theft of a 1980 Ford Venture van seven minutes after the vehicle was reported stolen Friday night.

Waveland Patrolman Claude Yarborough stopped the red and maroon van at 10:05 p.m. and arrested Ms. Peggy K. Silby, 36, and Ms. Barbara Hale, 31, both of 838 Meade Blvd., Gretna, La., according Robert (Pooche) Tartavoule, Waveland investigator.

Police say the vehicle, with an estimated value of $15,000, was reported missing from Charlie Henderson Ford, Waveland at 9:59 p.m.

The two women were taken to Hancock County jail and charged with larceny (auto).

Waveland Assistant Police Chief Eugene Hughes assisted Yarborough in making the arrest.

Tartavoule said he and Investigator Sandra Henley were continuing an investigation into the case.

Seafood, Inc. of Gulfport. Webre explained, "The sub-lease agreement is for $100 a month plus utilities encompassing 90 feet of dock area going up the east canal where they will provide fuel for boats at the same rate as Gulfport fishermen receive."

Webre asked the commission to table action in the matter because no Fosti officials were present.

However, Commissioner Dave McDonald said, "If there were any reluctance by Fosti to be involved in this one-month lease agreement they would have been here."

"If we approve this now we can grant them a lease until June 5 and Gulf Fishermen can go sign with Fosti," McDonald added.

Webre stated, "You are representing the commission, not Fosti. We're doing this without knowing what Fosti will do."

Gex explained, "Theoretically, you all could agree and he could concur."

McDonald said, "All he has to do is sign... he doesn't need to really take any action here at all."

Webre also reported the Corps of Engineers application for the proposed dredging at Bayou Cadet was following standard filing procedures.

"The application has gone out on advertisement and we're having the same problems with it as with the Steve Port Bienville could impose on cargoes.

Knight, Inc. permit," Webre said. "Victor Franckiewicz (a commission member and consultant to the Bureau of Marine Resources) couldn't get this thing through like he had promised," Webre added.

Franckiewicz was not present at the commission meeting.

McDonald replied, "Wait until Franckiewicz gets back."

In other business, at the 7:30 p.m. meeting at the Port and Harbor offices, the commissioners:

—Accepted a $2,582 bid from Coastal Machinery Co., Inc. of Gulfport for the commission's John Deere 300 tractor;

—Accepted a $9,782 bid from Coastal Machinery for the purchase of a John Deere 301 tractor;

—Heard a report from Webre that, if railroad tracks were available, the commission could have "bargained" with the Louisville and Nashville Railroad for storage of some 100 rail cars;

—Heard a report from Webre that the first plane load of explosives came into Stennis International Airport and called for a meeting of the Airport Committee to discuss rates for various cargoes;

—Discussed meeting with L.K. Moore, Port Bienville Terminals, Inc. president, to discuss tariffs and fees Port Bienville could impose on cargoes.

Widow seeks payments from commission

Gas processor fears 'disaster' if operators are far from plant

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A representative of Crystal Oil Co., of Denver, Colo. appeared at a Thursday night recess meeting of the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission requesting acreage in Stennis International Airport's 40-acre industrial park so company employees could reside close to its gas processing plant to avoid a possible "disaster."

Sharon Anderson, also from Denver, said the company wanted to place three trailers on a one-acre site to house employees of the company's gas processing plant in the National Space Technology Laboratories' buffer zone off of Texas Flat Road.

"With gas processing there's so many things that could happen. Somebody has to be close enough to respond to an alarm so a disaster won't happen," Mrs. Anderson said.

Commission Director W. Wilson Webre said he would assist Crystal Oil in obtaining privately owned acreage for the company's trailers.

Mrs. Anderson is the widow of Mel Anderson, president of the Trans-Am Co. which was the former fixed base operator at Stennis Airport.

Mel Anderson was reportedly killed in a plane crash last year in Latin America while working as a federal narcotics undercover agent.

Later during the meeting Mrs. Anderson told commissioners of problems collecting bills for products and services she provided as fixed base operator at Stennis Airport after her husband's death.

Speaking as Crystal Oil's representative, Mrs. Anderson reported, "Initially Crystal wanted to purchase land, but is now asking for a 20-year lease with a five-year option or a 10-year lease with an option to renew."

Commissioner Dave McDonald asked, "Would this be a place where people would reside?"

Webre replied, "Yes, this would be right off Texas Flat Road."

McDonald stated, "I don't believe the land we have in the airport industrial park is a desirable place to set up mobile homes which will form a cluster neighborhood."

"I don't think the land was designed for residential purposes. I'm sure you could get a number of acres of land in the area for mobile homes that would be more suitable," McDonald said.

Mrs. Anderson replied, "There isn't any more desirable land. The airport land is on high ground and is the closest land to the plant in case of an emergency."

"L.L. Fletcher was interested in leasing, but there was only enough room for one trailer," Mrs. Anderson added.

Commissioner Fred Curet said, "I don't think we can legally lease for residential use."

Commission Attorney Gerald Gex also agreed that the land is designated for industrial use only.

Webre reported, "I made attempts to contact everyone I knew that had land and I'm sympathetic to the people with Crystal Oil..."

Mrs. Anderson said, "Our president wanted to get enough land for two or three trailers. He feels if he can hire someone from Biloxi or someone locally there wouldn't be such a high personnel turnover rate."

"I think now Crystal Oil is interested in leasing part of the Stennis administration building, but I don't know how they would feel about partitioning off part of the offices and sharing a bathroom with the fixed base operator," Mrs. Anderson explained.

Webre reported, "I have an idea of some people who own some property, but I don't want to reveal their names here. The land is somewhat contiguous to the airport, but would not be under the restrictions of the airport land."

McDonald asked Mrs. Anderson, "How soon do you need an answer?"

Mrs. Anderson replied, "As soon as possible."

"Our plant manager is here and is anxious to set up. He does need to be close to the plant, but I have no idea of how many other people will be employed at the plant," Mrs. Anderson explained.

Webre stated the company's representative "couldn't find anybody to respond to his need for housing."

McDonald defended Hancock County by saying there were several trailer parks throughout the area.

"We have here an isolated spot near the buffer zone, if Crystal Oil's plant were in any another part of the county it would be a lot easier to find a place for these trailers and preferably in a trailer park."

Webre explained, "It's a different situation now than it was 20 years ago, people didn't want to move here, but now we have people moving in from all sides."

Curet said, "Those trailers draw tornados."

Mrs. Anderson said, "Crystal is willing to make land improvements wherever these trailers are located."

Mrs. Anderson asked Webre, "What do you want me to relate about the office space at Stennis?"

Webre replied, "I think with our obligations to the Federal Aviation Administration and U.S. Customs, we would probably have to check with them before making a decision."

Mrs. Anderson said, "It's really a shame because it's such a nice building and Crystal could even improve the building."

Webre then requested she be reimbursed for insurance payments she made during a time period when she managed Trans-Am at Stennis Airport until a new fixed based operator was hired.

"I don't understand the two weeks where I had to pay for insurance," Anderson asked?

Webre replied, "On Feb. 8 your representatives were here. We had an emergency declared and hired an airport manager on a temporary basis which was Trans-Am. That was up to the date of transition when Mel Anderson was doing business as Trans-Am."

Mrs. Anderson asked, "When I agreed to keep it in operation I would have assumed on the last day it was with free insurance and utilities."

Webre replied, "I don't know why this was not made clear to you by the incoming fixed base operator. It was obvious you didn't know what the understanding was with the new operator."

"When I pressed the operator on why he didn't pay you and it was because they didn't have a bill. So we billed them. The commission was indebted about $700," Webre added.

Mrs. Anderson said, "The airport did go on and operate. I even went ahead and bought fuel."

Webre replied, "I'm sure you incurred a loss, but the operator gave me their word they would reimburse you for the fuel in the ground."

"We also incurred a bill from Ed Kahn (an associate of Mel Anderson)," Webre added.

McDonald asked Mrs. Anderson, "Have you pursued being paid by Aero International?"

She replied, "No, but I plan to talk with them tomorrow."

"I talked with Andy Ewing of Aero International and he said he would give me 50 percent of what my office supplies were worth. Rather than take that I just gave everything away," Mrs. Anderson added.

Commissioner Fred Curet said, "I don't think we can legally lease for residential use."

Commission Attorney Gerald Gex also agreed that the land is designated for industrial use only.

Webre reported, "I made attempts to contact everyone I knew that had land and I'm sympathetic to the people with Crystal Oil..."

Mrs. Anderson said, "Our president wanted to get enough land for two or three trailers. He feels if he can hire someone from Biloxi or someone locally there wouldn't be such a high personnel turnover rate."

"I think now Crystal Oil is interested in leasing part of the Stennis administration building, but I don't know how they would feel about partitioning off part of the offices and sharing a bathroom with the fixed base operator," Mrs. Anderson explained.

Webre reported, "I have an idea of some people who own some property, but I don't want to reveal their names here. The land is somewhat contiguous to the airport, but would not be under the restrictions of the airport land."

McDonald asked Mrs. Anderson, "How soon do you need an answer?"

Mrs. Anderson replied, "As soon as possible."

"Our plant manager is here and is anxious to set up. He does need to be close to the plant, but I have no idea of how many other people will be employed at the plant," Mrs. Anderson explained.

Webre stated the company's representative "couldn't find anybody to respond to his need for housing."

McDonald defended Hancock County by saying there were several trailer parks throughout the area.

"We have here an isolated spot near the buffer zone, if Crystal Oil's plant were in any another part of the county it would be a lot easier to find a place for these trailers and preferably in a trailer park."

The director then reviewed his files regarding insurance and explained the payments.

McDonald asked Mrs. Anderson, "So you're requesting the commission pay another $177?"

Mrs. Anderson replied, "I want to understand what happened from Jan. 18 to Feb. 5."

McDonald said, "The agreement was that revenues during that time continued to go to Trans-Am and with those revenues it still left a deficit amount, between Feb. 5-22, of $600."

Webre said, "I don't think we incurred anything on hull liability. The total liability was $220."

McDonald said, "The only insurance which was required to be carried was regular liability."

Mrs. Anderson explained she also had hull liability to insure plans inside of the airport hanger.

Webre stated, "I don't think we want to be chancy about it but, I think we have to justify a cause for payment."

Mrs. Anderson replied, "I wish in the long run I had walked away from it all. It cost me a lot of money to keep Stennis Airport open so Andy Ewing could take it over."

Webre suggested the board take the matter under advisement.

Mrs. Anderson stated, "I don't want payments out of sympathy, I want what is right."

Gex replied, "It's a question of whether we can do this legally. I can morally see your position, but we can't justifiably offset a debt of $250 when you have a debt of $2,200."

The widow replied, "If they would have charged me rental, Stennis Airport would have been closed."

The commission attorney reiterated, "I don't think they can legally justify this. I don't see how we can forgive a debt and pay a bill."

"If it were personally and not Trans-Am, I would say off hand you could get back your money," Gex added.

Commissioner Ronnie Artigues said, "I thought we were acting on your behalf based on what you're other employees told us."

The widow replied, "I wish I was here for that meeting."

"Can't the motion to forgive the debt be rescinded," Mrs. Anderson asked.

Gex responded, "We can't rescind it and make it retroactive to that date. Technically, we're getting into another fiscal year and right off hand I would say we can't do this."

Curet added, "On the night we forgave this debt we hoped we were helping in the situation."

McDonald stated, "We're very much on your side, but I don't see where we have any deficiencies on the Port and Harbor's part. If you were paid for the fuel there are no other obligations."

Webre added, "Forbes still holds the lease and Ewing is the subletter. I feel he should settle the debt because he has a working agreement with the commission."

Mrs. Anderson replied, "He made a profit off of the fuel I bought and he explains that Joe Haas charged fuel to Trans Am."

"The base operator kept 12 padlocks and used imprints for credit cards I already paid for," Mrs. Anderson added.

"I'm not asking for payment on the fuel or supplies, but I feel the $300 a week insurance bill should be paid because it was going to lapse and didn't let it lapse," Mrs. Anderson explained.

McDonald said, "She's talking about a month and four days we employed Nathan Hoda and Sharon Anderson. She said the airport closed down April 18. Then, the period in question would be Jan. 18 to April 22."

Nathan Hoda added, "We came $300 short of breaking even."

Webre stated, "We realized the $15 a day rental on the DC-4 (a plane seized by the government) would go to you (Mrs. Anderson)."

McDonald added, "From Feb. 5-22 we agreed the $15 a day storage charge would go to her."

Webre stated, "All the payments until the plane was actually sold were forgiven."

McDonald said, "I can't see why she wasn't paid for the fuel that was there."

Webre added, "Ewing was an employee of Scooter Forbes and I talked to Forbes about a cross bill."

Hoda stated, "The bill was from Joe Haas."

Webre replied, "I think if she talks with Forbes it will be straightened out."

Mrs. Anderson reiterated, "I wanted to see if you would pay the insurance for that time period."

Webre replied, "I thought a consideration was made for insurance."

Borg-Warner land deal resolved

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Recent differences over protective covenants in a $401,276 land sale agreement between Borg-Warner Corp. and Hancock County on the corporation's purchase of some 83 acres in Port Bienville Industrial Park have been resolved.

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission unanimously voted at a recess meeting Thursday night to waive and modify certain sections of the industrial park's protective covenants.

In addition, the commission authorized consummation of a warranty deed and authorized an agreement to release effects of an Economic Development Administration title retention agreement on the Borg-Warner property.

Those three commission decisions were a result of an appeal by Commission Director W. Wilson Webre earlier this week at a County Board of Supervisors meeting where he asked for a joint commission-supervisors recess meeting April 29 to sell the industrial tract.

The supervisors determined they could not meet before the April 30 expiration of Borg-Warner's option agreement, so Webre suggested Board President A. A. (Dolph) Kellar and Chancery Clerk E. Michael Necaise be authorized to sign the agreements on behalf of the county.

The board approved Webre's proposal.

The director Thursday night informed the commission he had received all necessary paperwork to consummate the Borg-Warner land sale.

"I can assure you that the only substantial changes are that you are waiving Sections 201 and 206 of the protective covenants. In Section 202 the phrase (including economic causes) was added dealing with reasons not to maintain minimum employment density," Webre explained.

Commissioner Dave McDonald asked Webre, "Tell us what it is we're waiving?"

Webre replied, "Sections 201 and 206."

McDonald inquired, "Well, what did these sections touch on?"

Webre explained elimination of Section 201 would allow Borg-Warner to build its dock at the dead end of one of the port channels without approval of plans by the commissioners.

"Section 206 states the seller shall review all plans so as to be in compliance with all codes. We would have reserved the right to approve architectural and engineering plans in this section," the director reported.

McDonald said, "We do not have the authority to waive that clause. The state law says any structure requiring engineering and architectural services exceeding $1 million can't be built unless it's inspected."

Webre stated, "I'm sure that is what the state is going to do."

Commission Attorney Gerald Gex said, "They'll (Borg-Warner) still have to go by state law regardless of what we do."

McDonald reported, "This says they can't build a structure where life and limb is in jeopardy unless it's reviewed by the commission. But if only the Port and Harbor Commission is waving the right to review the plans and the state will still review them—I think there's no problem there."

Regarding the warranty deed between the county and Borg-Warner, Webre reported, "There were some optional easements for subsurface drainage of the site."

"Borg-Warner has selected one easement out of several selected. They've changed some verbiage in Section Two, but there are no substantial changes in the warranty deed."

Highway 90, Waveland

Webre explained.

Webre said the EDA agreed to release all of the lands, the roadway, railroad tracks and any other improvements being conveyed to Borg-Warner.

"The quit claim deed with Coast Electric Power Association just has some minor changes in language, but we've been assured these are no problem," Webre added.

McDonald asked Webre, "Do you know for sure you'll be signing these papers next Wednesday? Will you have everyone concerned here, and are there any legal technicalities where any of these agreements can expire?"

Webre replied none of the agreements would be in danger of expiring and said, "I feel positive this will be done as planned even if I have to take a plane to Atlanta to get all documents signed."

"Borg-Warner's crews want to occupy the site and begin construction as soon as possible," Webre stated.

McDonald added, "We didn't want to pin you to the wall on this."

Webre replied, "I'm pinned to the wall already."

Related to the Borg-Warner land sale, Engineer Tom Fromhurz of New Orleans presented plans for rerouting Port Bienville Road around the proposed new plant site's southern perimeter.

The engineer showed commission members a plan for a 24-foot wide roadway with a normally sloped contour.

"The ditches will be used for required dirt and the centerline of the roadway will not be more than 50-feet from Borg-Warner's property. We had to move the road further south to accommodate Coast Electric's power easement," Fromhurz explained.

Webre noted, "We granted 30-feet to Coast Electric because we had no right to subject Borg-Warner's property to an easement line."

McDonald remarked, "So we'll have 30-feet for a power easement."

The director reported, "The Coast Electric poles will be five feet from the center of the ditch."

Commissioner Fred Curet asked Fromhurz, "Why didn't you want to go over 50 feet?"

The engineer replied, "We want to save as much land on the other side of the road for future development for water lines, sewer, etc."

Webre explained, "We'll put a 150-foot right-of-way on the south side of the road because, to the south of Borg-Warner we want to eventually acquire more property."

"We have agreed on a sum of money with Fromhurz as if everything on the road was going to be put in. We have to present a plan to EDA to show them how we'll spend their $113,000," Webre said.

"The EDA money would allow us to throw up a rough bed road. We can designate a road for a sum of money with EDA. We have paid for plans and specifications and can get a road on which a truck or pickup truck can operate," the director explained.

"International Paper Co. will have even a better road to get to their camp and we have told Borg-Warner we can do this," Webre stated.

"Costs have gone up, but we have no apology for that. We're getting ready to sell all but 220 acres, 124 acres will be improved and we have protected the interests of Hancock County... we're making a good investment," Webre reported.

The Port and Harbor Commission also authorized the sale of Lot Nine at the county's industrial park to Engineering Steel, Inc. for a total of $28,880.

Webre explained, "In equity Engineering Steel has paid $7,245 and two payments of $2,888 each leaving $15,947 due."

"They have asked for an amendment to the park's covenants in the employment area from three people per acre to one and a half persons per acre," Webre reported.

"I see no reason not to consummate this sale... we need the money," the director said.

Regarding the industrial park's restrictive covenants Gex said the covenants, which had been approved for 10-years in 1970, had expired as of Jan. 1980.

"In essence, I would think the covenants would have been automatically extended," Gex stated.

McDonald said, "The covenants should be reviewed at least every decade to see if time to time there should be amendments."

Webre stated, "We may be responsible to give our tenants notice of our intent to renew the covenants. I think it's implied we should send out the proper notices."

McDonald said, "If there are any changes desired 50 percent of the tenants in the park can come to us and make a request to amend the covenants."

McDonald offered a resolution to extend the industrial park's covenants for an additional 10 years.

"This is simply to eliminate an expiration of the covenants and eliminates any chance of misinterpretation," McDonald stated.

The board passed McDonald's motion unanimously.

SCHOLARSHIPS HIKE

The Federal Land Bank of New Orleans will increase its agricultural scholarships to Mississippi State University from $600 to $750 per year, beginning with the fall 1980

school term, according to Joe G. Spell, President of The Federal Land Bank Association of Hattiesburg.

"This change was made in an effort to offset the increase in obtaining a college education which have occurred since the existing level of $600 was established in 1977," Joe G. Spell said. For more information about Federal Land Bank scholarships, contact the Federal Land Bank Association of Hattiesburg, or write the Federal Land Bank of New Orleans, Scholarship Program, P.O. Box 50590, New Orleans, Louisiana 70150.
